Every GUN sold by R. T. PRITCHETT is manufactured on the premises, and every RIFLE is bored, rifled, and shot under his personal superintendence. For both large or small bore the PRITCHETT BULLET, as adopted by H. M. Government, without cup or plug, is found most serviceable—very numerous testimonials having been received of its range and truth of flight. To the manufacture of SWORDS also, great attention is paid, the most efficient proof of strength and spring being applied, a guarantee given of the quality of the blade, which is uniformly tested by powerful machinery in the presence of the purchaser, before made up.

PASSENGERS.

DEPARTED.—Per Aden, Marquis de Moges, Marquis de Frevise, Casimor Le Conte, Viconte de Flavigny, Comr. W. Graham. R.N., Messrs. C. T. Smith, Ezra Meyer, Richard Hunter, John Holmes, and W. R. Dalziel, Mrs. McGill, and 10 Seamen of H. M. S. Highflyer.

THE next outward mail for Europe is advertized to leave by one of the P. & O. S. N. Co.'s vessels on Sunday morning next the 21st instant. The Post-office Packets by that opportunity are calculated to arrive in London viâ Marseilles on January 13th, answers may therefore be expected here on about March 20th, 1859.

THE new Tariff, and Trade Regulations were signed by the Plenipotentiaries of England, and America on Monday last the 8th inst. at the Teen How Kung a public temple outside the city, dedicated to the Queen of Heaven.

In the afternoon of the same day, Lord Elgin and suite embarked on board H. M. S. Furious, Capt. Sherard Osborn, C. B., and with H. M. S. Retribution, Capt. Barker, Cruiser, Comm: Bythesea, and gun-boats, Lee Lieut. Jones and Dove Lieut. Bullock, proceeded up the Yangtsze Kiang as announced in our last number. A Chinese boat with the official deputed by the Imperial Commissioners to accompany the expedition, was towed by one of the vessels.

On the Wednesday following, Mr. Reed, the American Minister and suite left in the U. S. S. Minnesota for Hongkong.

Baron Gros, the French Minister still remains here, he has not yet signed the Tariff and Trade Regulations.

The Chinese Imperial Commissioners Kweliang and Hwashana remain in Shanghai; we hear they will not leave until Lord Elgin's return which can scarcely be expected in less than a month, as the progress of the expedition after passing Nanking must necessarily be slow, the navigation of the Yangtsze beyond that city being only known from Chinese maps. Although the opening of that river has been contemplated for two years, and the Treaty conceding it has now been signed five months, no man of war has been yet sent to survey those waters.

The new Tariff will be found in our columns to-day. An abstract also of the Trade Regulations, translated from the Chinese copy, accompanies it. These documents will be critically examined by our readers, and in our next number we purpose reviewing them.

PEKING GAZETTES come down very seldom now. The country is so infested with rebels and banditti that it is unsafe for travellers or messengers. Those gazettes which have been received contain nothing interesting to foreigners.

SENOR DN. Gumersindo Ogen y Porras, Spanish Consul appointed by the Government at Madrid for Shanghai, arrived here on 31st ulto., per steamer Aden.

Senor Ogen was introduced to the Chinese local authorities by the Consul General of France on the 10th inst. He is an old Consular Officer of Spain, having represented that country in some parts of France and England, and we hope will contribute to keep order among the numerous Manilamen who come to this Port.

WE have not yet been furnished with the usual racy description of the meeting, and can therefore merely give the places of the nags at the Winning Post, deferring until next week the full, true, and particular account of the sport.

The weather was bright and beautiful, as it has been for several weeks, notwithstanding which only a few of our fair residents and visitors graced the Grand Stand. The sport was unusually good and we have heard that the favorable result to the other stable, is likely to induce new importations and be productive of more competition at future meetings.

NIEUCHEONG AND TANGCHOW.

BY the Treaty of Tien Tsing the Chinese agreed to throw open to European commerce the ports of Nieucheong in the gulf of Leotong, and Tangchow in the province of Shantung.

The concession appears to have been acceded to by the Chinese from the conviction that both places would prove unsuitable, or unavailable, for Foreign vessels of large tonnage.

NIEUKOW.—Lat. 40° 42' North, Long. 122° 18' East, about 20 miles from Nieuchong, has a considerable population, being the terminus of the northern navigation—it is unsurveyed, and nearly unknown to Foreigners. It is seated on the Bank of a River, the adjacent country being low and flat, rising merely a few feet above high water mark, and covered with rushes and reeds for miles around. Some 15 or 20 miles distance from Nieukow it is mountainous.

The approach to Nieukow is by an intricate navigation as there are 3 bars to cross. Sands and shoals extend several miles from the mainland, between which is the Junk Passage. The first bar is 1½ mile wide—at low tide there are merely 7 to 9 feet.

Vessels drawing 12 or 13 feet could pass at high water after the channel is properly surveyed and buoyed. Native Junks resort to Nieukow in great numbers. The Exports consist almost entirely of bulky produce, viz. Peas, Beans, &c. The carrying traffic in which by European shipping has been surrendered under the Supplementary Treaty.

TANGCHOW.—About 110 miles west from the Shangtung promontory is a straggling walled city, containing a few thousand inhabitants, with a most limited trade, situated by an open roadstead, it is exposed to all winds except from the southward. The Miataou Islands, 10 miles distant, afford but indifferent shelter for shipping. No Junks resort to Tangchow, the traffic being confined to a few coasters under 30 tons burthen.

CHEFOO, or YENTAI, 30 miles east of Tangchow, should have been the port, as it possesses a good harbor, frequented by Junks,—but according to the strict letter of the Treaty, English vessels resorting there are liable to confiscation. A regulation which, if not altered will cause the universal substitution of the foreign flag for the British.

It is not surprising that the Chinese offered to throw open Tangchow, being well aware that it would prove an illusory grant—the slightest investigation, by a previous survey of the place, would have proved its unsuitability.

By the American Treaty with Japan there was a prudent stipulation that the ports to be thrown open in that country should be safe and adapted for trade, but in the English Treaty with China that precaution was not observed.

ABSTRACT

OF THE

NEW TRADE REGULATIONS,

Appended to the Treaties of Teën-tsin.

(Translated from the Chinese.)

I. In the present newly arranged Tariff all articles which are only mentioned amongst the imports and not amongst the exports, and which may be however hereafter exported shall pay duties according to the import half of the tariff; and all articles which are only mentioned amongst the exports and not amongst the imports, and which may be however hereafter imported, shall pay duties according to the export half of the tariff

All unenumerated articles in the import and export tariffs, and which may not be classed amongst the articles under the head of "Duty free," shall pay an ad valorem duty of 5 per cent.

II. Foreign gold and silver bullion, and foreign gold and silver coins, foreign grain, flour, rice, biscuits, preserved meats, preserved fruit, cheese, butter, preserves, clothes, gold and silver ornaments, silver plated ware, scents, soap, coals, firewood, candles, tobacco, tobacco leaves, wines, spirits, malt liquors, house-hold articles, articles or stores required for ships, bedding, paper, pens, ink, carpets, knives, physic for use of foreigners, glass, glass ware, shall be exempted from paying duties on entering in or going out of port.

With the exception of gold and silver bullion, foreign money, clothes and bedding which vessels may have on board only, vessels bringing any of the other above mentioned articles will be compelled to pay tonnage dues.

III. The import and export of gunpowder, iron shot, guns (cannon), small arms, and other military weapons, and native salt are strictly prohibited.

IV. It is now fixed that the following weights and measures are to be employed in the carrying out of this tariff:—

One Chinese pecul is equal to 100 Chinese catties or 133⅓ lbs. English;
One Chinese chang, or 10 Chinese feet is equal to 141 inches;
One Chinese foot is equal to 14.1-10ths English inches;
Twelve English inches are equal to 1 foot English;
Three English feet are equal to 1 yard; and 4 yards less 3 inches are equal to 1 Chinese chang.

V. Hitherto it was prohibited to trade in opium, (foreign medicine), copper cash, rice, peas, beans, saltpetre, brimstone, and lead; it is now however stipulated, that hereafter these articles may be bought and sold under certain restrictions.

Opium shall be permitted to be imported on paying a duty of Thirty Taels per pecul. Foreign merchants are, however, only permitted to sell it at the Treaty-ports and will not be permitted to take it to other places for sale, at which it will be viewed in the light of property belonging to Chinese. Chinese merchants are alone permitted to take opium into the interior of the country; and foreign merchants cannot take charge of it for the purpose of conveying it into the interior of the country. Hence the tenor of the 9th article of the Teentsin treaty permitting British subjects to proceed into the Interior to trade under a passport system, and the tenor of the 28th article of the same treaty respecting the Transit duties, have no bearing upon trading in Opium. With respect to the transit duty on Opium such will be left to the arrangement of the Chinese government.

With regard to copper cash it is prohibited to export it to foreign countries, but foreigners may export it from Treaty-ports to Treaty-ports, where it will be dealt with according to the present established regulations viz. by the merchants concerned giving bonds to the Custom Houses. Should they not fulfil these bonds the copper cash, on being seized, will be confiscated. On the copper cash reaching the Treaty port to which it shall be the intention to send it, no duty will be charged on it. Vessels which transport copper cash, be it a small or a large quantity, will have to pay tonnage dues.

Rice of China, or foreign rice, if once imported, cannot be exported to a foreign country; but Chinese rice and foreign rice may be exported to other Treaty ports under the same conditions as copper cash.

British merchant vessels are prohibited exporting peas, beans, pea and bean cakes, from Newchang and Tángchow. At the other Treaty ports there are no such restrictions, and they may export these articles even to foreign countries.

Saltpetre, brimstone, and spelter, can only be imported, when purchased by the Chinese authorities, or by Chinese merchants holding licenses permitting them to do so. British merchants are only permitted to sell these articles at the Treaty sea ports, and are prohibited importing them up the Yangtsze. If British merchants violate this stipulation, then the saltpetre, brimstone, and spelter, will, on seizure, be confiscated.

VI. British vessels shall act in accordance with the 30th and 37th articles of the Teen-tsin treaty on coming to the Treaty-ports.

VII. The transit duties are now fixed at one half of the duties which are to be levied at the Treaty-ports, being in accordance with the tenor of the 28th article of the Teen-tsin Treaty.

Those commodities, which, according to the 3rd article of this Regulation, are exempted from paying duties at the Treaty-ports, shall, on going into the interior of the country, pay transit duties at the rate of 2½ per cent ad valorem.

On foreign merchants taking merchandize into the interior, they must report such at the Custom Houses at the Treaty-ports, and pay the transit duties; when they will receive receipts to be produced en-route, and which will prevent them paying any further transit duties.

On British merchants purchasing goods in the interior, they will report the same at the first inland Custom House, where they will receive a certificate, and on their arrival at the Treaty-port, they will produce the certificate and pay the inland duties. Should they violate this regulation and en-route secretly sell the goods, on their seizure, they will be confiscated.

VIII. In the 9th article of the Teen-tsin treaty it is stipulated that British subjects, provided with passports, will be allowed to proceed into the interior of the country, it is now however stipulated that British subjects cannot proceed to Peking to trade.

IX. British merchants will not hereafter be called upon to pay the shroff fee of 1 Tael 2 mace on the payment of duties to the Custom House.

X. Regarding the collection of the foreign duties certain Chinese high officers will be appointed for the collecting them who will either themselves or some of their special subordinate Chinese officers or some British subjects engaged by them for that purpose, superintend such collection.

Regarding the anchoring of the vessels, the placing of buoys, erecting of lighthouses, &c., the Chinese government will arrange such and bear the necessary expense from the tonnage dues.

Japan: its government, laws, manners, customs, religion, literature, together with brief notices of its intercourse with foreign nations.

Before we proceed to describe the religions which now prevail among the Japanese, we will notice very briefly the rise, progress, and fall of Romanism among them. Only about six years after the discovery of Japan by the Portuguese, the propagators of the Romish faith reached the country of the rising sun; great success attended their efforts, till near the close of the 17th century; but from that time so rapid was their decline, that in 1650, there were left no traces of all their labors, except those of disaster and defeat. Previous to their entrance into the country, the Japanese seem to have enjoyed liberty of conscience in a most perfect degree; hence they met with but few obstacles in the propagation of their doctrines. A young Japanese who had fled to Goa, was baptized there in 1549; he was their first convert: with him, Xavier and other Jesuits embarked the same year to enter a new scene of labors. In 1582, three of the princes who had embraced the new faith, sent some of their nearest relations with letters and presents, to pay homage to the pope, Gregory XIII, and to assure his holiness of their filial submission to his authority. In 1614, the number of converts is reported to have been 1,800,000; yet only a few years from that date had elapsed, when neither the propagators nor converts of Romanism were to be found in Japan. Efforts, however, have not been wanting, in subsequent times, to regain lost favor and possessions: we will advert to one instance.

Early in the 18th century, the abbot de Sidoti left Rome, the place of his birth, to go to Manila, from whence he hoped to reach Japan. During two years in which he lived in the Philipines, "he got a ship built from the alms he had collected, which enabled him to put his design in execution." He sailed from Manila in August, 1709, and in a few weeks made the coast of Japan. After a short delay, the abbot said to the captain: "the happy moment, for which I have long panted, is at last come. We are now on the shores of Japan, and it is time that I prepare to land in the wished for country. You have been so generous as to conduct me through a sea unknown to yourself; a sea signalized by shipwrecks. Be so good therefore, as to complete and crown your work. Leave me in the midst of a people, whom, though they abhor the Christian name, I yet hope to win over to Christ. I do not rely on my own strength, but on the all powerful grace of our Savior, and the protection of so many martyrs, who, in the preceding century, shed their blood in defense of his name." The captain willingly complied with Sidoti's wishes, and soon had every thing in readiness to put him on shore. In the mean time the abbot wrote several letters; counted his beads; exhorted the ship's company; asked pardon for the ill example he might have set them; and lastly, he kissed the feet of the officers, soldiers, and slaves on board. At midnight he went into the long-boat with the captain and seven other Spaniards who desired to accompany him to the shore. He continued in prayer during the whole passage, and the instant he stepped from the boat, he fell prostrate to kiss the earth, and thanked heaven for its goodness in enabling him to surmount the many difficulties which had opposed his entrance into Japan!

There are three systems of religion prevalent in Japan. The sintoo religion is the primitive faith of the empire. It is founded on the worship of spirits or divinities, who are supposed to preside over all things visible and invisible, and who are called kami, or sin: and hence the derivation of the name, sintoo,—sin signifying spirit, and too a way or doctrine; i. e. the doctrine or 'worship of spirits.' In the list of the divinities whom they worship, the Japanese include all those from whom the present line of emperors is supposed to have derived its origin. It is erroneous, therefore, to say that the devotees of the sintoo system recognize and adore the Supreme Being. There are gradations of rank among their divinities, and they are continually adding to the number of those whom they honor as gods

For a further account of the sintoo form of worship we must refer our readers to a paper written by Dr. Burger, and published in the second volume of the Repository, page 320.

The second religion, and that which is now most prevalent in Japan, is Budhism. This religion, which previous to the commencement of our era, had spread from India to central Asia, soon reached China, and subsequently Corea. From this last country it was carried to Japan, A. D. 552. At that date, say the Japanese annals, the king of Fiaksae, in the west of Corea, sent an embassy to the daïri Kinmei, with an image of Budha and various other articles, among which were the classical books of the Budhists. One of the ministers of the daïri endeavored to persuade him to worship the new god, but another dissuaded him, saying that "our kingdom is of divine origin, and the daïri has already many gods to worship; if we pay adoration to those of foreign states, our own will be displeased." Although the daïri was alarmed at this speech, so far as it regarded himself, yet Budhism immediately took root in Japan, and after having encountered some persecutions, it soon triumphed. And about A.D. 600, two zealots of great influence, and one of them the cousin of the empress Sewko, devoted themselves to the propagation of the doctrine of Budhism; they built temples, and invited learned priests from Corea. This exotic creed not only maintained its footing in the palaces of the great, but made considerable progress among the common people, who were captivated by the pomp of its ceremonies which were far more imposing than those of the sintoo system. Priests now flocked into Japan from Corea, and China; and as the latter country was regarded as the second birthplace of Budhism in eastern Asia, a vast number of Japanese, who had dedicated themselves to a religious life, proceeded thither in order to acquire a more thorough knowledge of the doctrines of Budhism. Even the daïri who hitherto had been regarded as the head of the sintoo religion, often deserted it to follow the precepts of Budhism; and many of the princes also, whose reputed descent was from the gods of the country, shaved their heads and became priests in the convents of the new faith. In 805 of our era, the daïri Kwanmu caused images of the Budhistic divinities to be placed in the imperial palaces, and the sacred books procured from India, to be read and explained in the temples. At length the religion of Budha became the state religion; this circumstance caused the ancient sintoo worship, though differing essentially from Budhism, to be almost completely identified with it, at least among the vulgar. This amalgamation of the two systems is now carried so far, that the sintoo divinities are often worshiped in the temples of Budha, and vice versa.

A gentleman, having a large six-shooter in his hand, was asked, "Pray, sir, is that a horse pistol;" No, sir," he replied, "it's only a Colt's."

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

Hydrographic Notice.

CHINA SEA.

NORTH-WEST COAST OF BORNEO AND PALAWAN PASSAGE.

VARIATION 1° 20′ E. IN 1858.

Two dangerous Coral banks were passed by H. M. S. Fury on her passage to and from the Island of Mouro, on the North-west Coast of Borneo.

The first, in Latitude 5° 42′ N., Longitude 114° 59′ E., and situated to the North-west of the 4 fathoms sounding marked Samarang in Sheet 7 of the N.W. Coast of Borneo, appeared to be 4 or 5 miles long, East and West, and 3 to 4 miles broad, with heavy breakers extending 1½ miles. There was a heavy sea at the time, and the deepest water obtained was 12 fathoms, the least 6 fathoms.

The second, in Latitude 5° 56′ N., Longitude 114° 50′ E., was also about the same length, East and West, and, as far as could be judged from the discoloured water, 3 miles in breadth. No Breakers were seen; the bank appears to be steep-to, and was first struck on one side with a depth of 11 fathoms, and on the other with 7 fathoms. The vessel was then steered West 1½ miles when the soundings shoaled, then North, when they shoaled to 4¾ fathoms, and then suddenly deepened to no bottom with the hand lead. The soundings on this bank were very regular.*

CAUTION.—Great attention should be paid to the lead, and a good look-out kept for discoloured water, when in this neighbourhood, for it is well known to be full of shoals, and the mariner is cautioned not to make too free with its navigation.

ROGER BREAKERS.—The Peninsular and Oriental Mail Steam Packet Company have given notice to the Admiralty, that heavy breakers were seen every three or four minutes, bearing East 2 or 3 miles, from the Steam Vessel Formosa, at 6h. 50m. A.M. January 4th, 1858, when proceeding from Singapore towards Hongkong by the Palawan passage. There was a swell from the N.E., and the broken water, about 10 yards in extent north and south, was apparently caused by a rock a few feet under water. The vessel proceeded slowly, and soundings were occasionally tried for with 100 fathoms, no bottom. The weather was thick and rainy, but at 11 A.M. it cleared up and Mantaleengahan mountain, 6,843 feet high, near the southern end of Palawan, bore E.N.E. ½ N. The position of the breakers, worked back from observation and cross bearings of the land at noon, is in lat. 8° 21′ N., long. 116° 25′ E.†
